lants' Pitcher Tells of His Failure to Win $500 in the Pittsburg Game.

McGinnity, 'the Giants' twirler lost the chance of winning $500 by not pitching his team to victory in their second game with the champion Pitts burgs on Thursday, says he is one of the most unfortunate persons on earth. McGinnity was a spectator at the game between the New York and Cleveland teams yesterday. In speaking of the game lost to Pittsburg, he said:
"Just before the players went to bed after beating the Pittsburgs that first game, a man at the hotel asked to see McGraw. He saw him and told the manager that he had bet 4.000 against $5,000 that the Glants would beat Pittsburg in the second game. He said he made the bet with the proviso that McGinnity pitched. McGraw called me and asked me if I would oblige the gentleman by pitching the game. I said I would, and the bettor then said that if I won the game he would give me a present of $500 and an additional $500 to the other players of the team.
"I lost and it marked the second time! had the same experience in Pittsburg. Last year I was offered $500 to beat the Pittsburgs and lost." the most unfortunate persons on earth
